The applicant shall treat the user ID, the related password and the content of DENIC's password-protected webpages providing information about the DENIC membership strictly confidential. The applicant shall further not disclose to any third party any of the information provided on these webpages and restrict disclosure of this information within their business to those employees for whom direct access to this information is imperative to perform their duties. If not already stipulated in their employment contract, the applicant shall commit their staff to absolute confidentiality.

The applicant shall further pay a penalty to DENIC for any violation of this Agreement, amounting to EUR 6,000 for each individual case of violation; objection of continuation of offence shall not be applicable. Such penalty shall be paid without prejudice to any possible claim for damages.

Should the applicant fail to comply with these obligations, DENIC shall have the right to block access to the website without any further formality or notice.

The user ID and the password will be sent to the e-mail address stated above. Their validity for access to the website will be limited to two weeks.

This Agreement shall be governed by German law. The competent court for any legal dispute arising out of this Agreement (insofar as the applicant is a commercial entity) shall be the local court at the place of residence of DENIC.
